His Pretty Wife Pleaded Valuey that He Wasn't a Thief.

Charles Dougherty, who says he lives at 397 South Fourth street. Brooklyn, was held to await the action of the Grand Jury by Justice Goetting, in the Lee Avenue Court, Williamsburg, today, on a charge of carrying concealed weapons. Policeman Wilson, who made the arrest, was commended by Justice Goetting, and the police believe that tured is in a very fine residence neighborhood.

Dougherty declined to say anything about what he was doing on Stuyvesant avenue, but he pleaded guilty to the charge of garrying concealed weapons. He declared that he had been an oiler on a Morgan line steamer, but during the past month had been out of work.

The prisoner's wife, a pretty brunette, was in court and pleaded piteously for his release, saying that although they had bee married for two years he had never, to her knowledge, done anything wrong.

"There must be some mistake. He is not a thief," she cried. When her husband was led away, Mrs. Dougherty fainted and her to be carried out of court.

Riley was at one time interested in the policy game with Williams. He introduced the latter to some gamblers in Jersey City, and when the place was raided, Riley says, Williams deserted his pals, who are now in jail. For this reason h had the Brooklyn headquarters raided yesterday.

The game, Riley says, is backed by Williams's wife, who is wealthy. She was in court this morning.

The new Government loan for $50,000. the night edition of "The Evening World" yesterday, was the main topic of liscussion in Wall street to-day. The bonds are of the same denomina tion as those issued in February last, which had ten years to run. The present issue, if sold on a 3 per cent, basis reason that the bonds will have little to lose my eyes ght, and I grew steadily worse more than nine years to run to matu-

Of course, it will please bankers as well as Government officials if considerable amounts are taken abroad. This will enable the Treasury Department to build up the gold reserve without encroaching too much on the gold holdings of the New York banks.

Julking from the recent course of the foreign exchanges there is evidently a belief that at least a part of the new 5s will find a resting place in Europe. The payments into the Treasury by local buyers ought to have a tendency to stiffen the rates for money, in which event exchange on London is sure to go lower, inasmuch as funds in London go begging at 1-4 a 1-2 per cent.

Germany Can't Enter Free Sale Under the "Favored Nation" Clause.

(By Associated Press.) WASHINGTON, Nov. 14-Attorney-General Olney has at the request of the Seretary of the Treasury rendered a decision upon the proper interpretation of the "Most Favored Nation clause" in the Treaty of 1828 between this country the Treaty of 1828 between this country and Russia. The controversy is due to the claim of the German Ambasador. German salt should be admitted to this country free of duty. Duty is now imposed upon German salt under the terms of the new Tariff Act, which imposes duty upon any article which is subject to duty by the Government of the country from which it is exopted.

The Attorney-General asserts that the "Most Favored Nation" clause leaves each party to Treaty free to make any internal regulations necessary for the protection of home industries, and permitting commercial concessions to any country granting equivalent concession. In other words, if Germany would enter her sait in this country free of duty salt in this country free of duty her sait in this country free of duty must grant an equivalent concession.
